JOIN US!

BNP launches massive recruitment drive as economic crisis worsens

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY has launched its biggest ever recruitment drive for new members. The new 'Join Us' leaflet is being distributed to thousands of homes across the country in the BNP's bid to achieve a mass membership capable of mounting a serious challenge to the old Establishment parties.

Last year the BNP achieved electoral successes undreamed of by a nationalist party since the 1970s. Not only did the Party gain a credible vote at the General Election, it also won a resounding 20 per cent of the vote in an East London local by-election, pushing the Tory candidate into a humiliating fourth place.

It is now clear that the public is increasingly turning to the British National Party, as the only real alternative to the economic and social mess created by the old parties. In order to harness this support, however, the need for a solid base of activists at local level has become even more pressing. The BNP must gain active members as well as votes if it is to be effective; otherwise, the party will become like an army which is advancing so successfully that it is outstripping its supply lines.

A party like the BNP must first win power on the streets if it is to achieve power at the ballot box. There is no way that the Establishment is going to allow us fair coverage through the press or television; they have every intention of clinging to power and are not in the business of 'fair play'. Therefore the only real option for gaining power is through street demonstrations, paper sales and door to door campaigning. For these activities, it is essential for the BNP to possess strength in numbers if it is to avoid being pushed around by the footsoldiers of the Establishment - the Reds and the Police. A larger membership would of course bring much needed new funds to the Party which are essential for the fighting of election campaigns.

Apart from the practical advantages of greater manpower, strength on the street also has a positive effect on the morale of the public. The public are more likely to feel respect and trust in an organisation when they see large numbers of disciplined activists campaigning on the streets, and this will be reflected in the votes which the Party will gain during elections.

This is the reasoning behind the 'Join Us' campaign, through which ordinary British people are being encouraged to join the BNP. The importance of the campaign for members cannot be stressed enough: If it as successful as recent campaigns for votes, then the BNP will be able to make a serious bid for power before the end of this decade.

Tyndall to appear on TV

THE LEADER of the British National Party, John Tyndall, will be interviewed on a BBC2 programme at the end of this month.

The Public Eye current affairs programme is examining the growth of nationalism throughout Europe and Britain, and will be broadcast nationwide.

The programme will no doubt be made from a highly biased, anti-British standpoint, but nevertheless is a further sign that the Establishment Media regards the BNP as a force which it can no longer ignore.

At the time of going to press, the broadcast was scheduled for on or around the 22nd January.

MEMBERSHIP SUBS DUE

BNP MEMBERS should note that it is now time for renewal of membership. Details and coupon are on Page 8.

ENCOURAGING PROSPECTS FOR THE NEW YEAR

As We enter the new year, it seems certain that the British National Party can look forward to a period of ever-increasing growth.

The Recession created by the Tories has now become the worst economic slump since the 1930s; unemployment is approaching three million (and the real figure is probably nearer four million); tens of thousands of people have lost their homes; long-established businesses are going bankrupt by the hour.

The simple truth is that the Old Gang at Westminster no longer have the power to reverse the slump even if they wanted to. The political system has become so corrupt that the Establishment is completely in hock to foreigners. Any policy which might help Britain is vetoed behind closed doors by the powers who really control the country.

In practical terms, this means that Britain will never fully recover economically. Even if the Recession was to end tomorrow, Britain's manufacturing backbone has been so badly damaged that we are no longer capable of producing goods for ourselves, let alone for export.

The only new car factories being built on British soil are those owned by Toyota and Nissan. Most of our electronic goods, from computers to microwaves, are imported from the far east.

As the economic misery gets worse, the BNP is the only party which logically should gain from the situation, as the old political systems, capitalist and communist, have been exposed as a fraud. There has not been a more opportune moment for nationalism since the Second World War. But on the down side, it must be said that there will probably never be such an opportune moment again. Immigration has damaged the ethnic base of Britain to such an extent, that there will soon no longer be enough whites to take the country back. Nationalists are all too aware that time is working against us in the long term. This really is the last chance to save our country.

If we let the Establishment off the hook this time, we will have no one to blame but ourselves.

LIARS! How the Establishment media distort the truth about the BNP

ONE OF THE proudest boasts of the Establishment politicians is that Britain has a "free press." Anyone who has had experience of the way in which the British National Party is covered in the Establishment media knows this to be utterly false.

The left-wing National Union of Journalists has recently issued some interesting guidelines on the reporting of organisations which they consider to be 'racist'.

The advice from the NUJ is that whenever reporting statements by groups such as the BNP, journalists should "seek rebutting or opposing comments. The anti-social nature of such views should be exposed." Hardly a 'neutral' way of reporting the news.

It gets worse, as the guidelines add that journalists should "seek to publish or broadcast material exposing the myths and lies of racist organisations..." - presumably this is the NUJ's idea of objective and fair journalism.

POLITICAL CORRECTNESS

In the Politically Correct world of the Establishment media, the cardinal sin is of course to dare to criticise 'ethnic minorities' or mass immigration. This is particularly true when it comes to crime reporting. Both the NUJ and the Press Council agree that in crime reporting, a journalist should "only mention someone's race if it is strictly relevant." In practice, this means that if a white person is the victim of a black criminal, the racial background of those involved is not 'relevant'. If, however, the victim happens to be black and his attacker is white, the issue of race becomes absolutely essential, because the journalist can then describe the incident as a 'racial attack' - whether or not the incident was racially motivated.

SETTING THE AGENDA

It is of course in the interests of both the Tory Government and left-wing journalists to cover up the truth about immigration and racial issues. By banning genuine debate about race, the Government is able to keep immigration off the political agenda, and thus continue to flood the country with thousands more immigrants each year.

The article from the Lincolnshire Echo reproduced on page seven of this month's issue, is a perfect example of the barrage of lies and abuse directed against the BNP by the Establishment, to cover up the truth about how our country is being ruined by imports and mass immigration.

Note how they try to portray BNP activists as 'criminals' by getting a statement from the local police. Political leafleting is a perfectly lawful activity, but by quoting the law on the Public Order Act, the journalist tries to give the (false) impression that a crime has been committed.

MAJOR BOOST FOR QUEERS

PRIME MINISTER John Major has offered his support for homosexual perverts, by issuing a personal statement backing the relaunch of TORCHE - the Tory Campaign for Homosexual Equality.

QUEER MPs

The Tory party has a number of self-confessed queer MPs within its ranks, as well as several who prefer to keep their proclivities secret. Instead of making this sick perversion illegal, it appears that the Tory Government is to lower the age of consent for queers from 21 to 16. Such a change in the law would allow aging Tory and Labour faggots to prey on schoolboys - a prospect which clearly fills many MPs with eager anticipation!

The Prime Minister's press office recently confirmed that the Government was looking at lowering the age of consent for poofs following a 'personal visit' to John Major by queer actor Sir Ian McKellen. So far, some 15 Conservative MPs have 'come out' in support of TORCHE.

'QUOTAS' FOR POLICE

Apart from lowering the age of consent for queers, one of the main aims of TORCHE is to establish 'quotas' of queers in the police force. Instead of being arrested, the perverts would be encouraged to join in with law enforcement!

The odd couple have recently had considerable exposure in the popular press - apparently the Government feels that their activities are an ideal propaganda symbol of the multi-racial harmony and liberal attitude to homosexuality championed by our popular Prime Minister, John Major.

Interestingly, Mr Fashanu claims that a married Tory MP has been one of his male lovers, though he has not yet named the lucky man. Readers can no doubt think of plenty of likely suspects!

"What I can't make out is whether it's a queer PC or a lesbian WPC!"

Meet the man who broke the pound...

READERS of BN may be interested to see the sort of person that the Government is allowing to help run our economy.

Currency speculator George Soros

Like all speculators, Soros works by shuffling money and shares from one country to another, and earning fat profits for very little effort.

What is almost incredible is that a government, even one as morally bankrupt and ideologically corrupt as our own, could allow men like Soros to sting the Treasury for Billions of pounds, while decent British families are being made jobless and homeless on a scale not seen since the 1930s.

The effect of the pound's collapse was that over three billion pounds was lost by the Treasury, money which was made by foreigners such as Soros and immediately spirited out of the country to be re-invested elsewhere - again, at a fat profit. This means that billions of pounds worth of productive capital has been lost to Britain, and converted into speculative capital for the likes of foreigners such as George Soros. It is as if every adult citizen in this country has been taxed by one hundred pounds.

The most charitable thing that can be said of Lamont and Major after this episode, is that they are extremely stupid and incompetent. Any other explanation would have far more sinister implications.

Foreign patients sting NHS for £40 million

BRITAIN'S NATIONAL Health Service is being swindled out of millions of pounds a year by organised groups who sell treatment to foreign visitors not entitled to receive it.

In some London hospitals, one in every 30 beds is occupied by a patient from abroad, who has made no financial contribution to the NHS. Health Service managers estimate that around 8,000 foreigners come to Britain each year for illegal operations, costing a staggering £40m annually, or the price of a new hospital.

Cammell Laird becomes latest victim of Lamont and Major's incompetence

THE CAMMELL LAIRD shipyard is about to become the latest victim of the Tory Government's economic incompetence. The owners of the yard, VSEL, have announced that it is to close in July due to lack of orders. They have spent the last two years trying without success to find a buyer for the yard.

The Government is doubly to blame for the closure - firstly, for creating the present economic depression, and secondly for slashing the budget of the Royal Navy so that it can no longer afford to commission new ships.

Needless to say, Messrs Major and Lamont don't give tuppence for the fate of the 900 men who will lose their jobs. After all, this is nothing compared with the number of miners and post office workers who are about to join the dole queue. In the Government's opinion, mass unemployment is a small price to pay for a 'market economy'.

The 160-year old Cammell Laird is one of only five remaining shipbuilding yards in Britain, and as well as its strategic importance as a builder of Royal Navy warships (including both Ark Royal aircraft carriers), it has provided a vital source of employment for the Merseyside town of Birkenhead. During the heyday of the British Empire, between the wars, the yard employed a staggering 40,000 men, building 97 warships and 57 submarines.

CAMMELL LAIRD shipyard at the height of its productive life - in the heyday of the British Empire

Cammell Laird's long-term decline was caused by Churchill's loss of the British Empire. The Royal Navy, once the most powerful in the world, has been reduced to such a small size that it can no longer provide enough demand for the British shipyards.

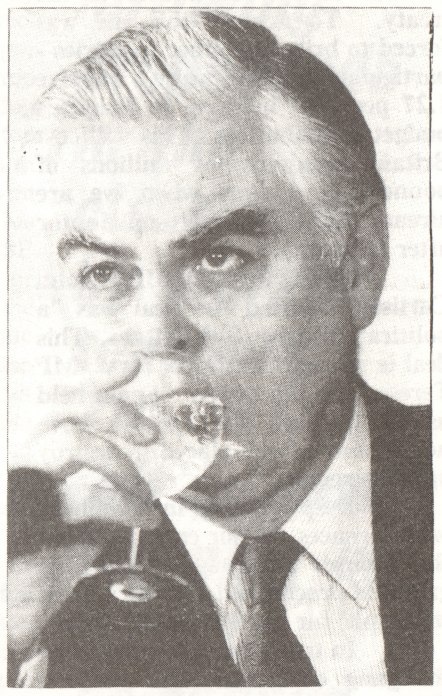
Closures of yards such as Cammell Laird will soon leave Britain unable to produce her own warships - which would be a strategic as well as an economic disaster.

THE HUNGER CHANCELLOR

Millions rot on the dole while Lamont guzzles champagne

CHANCELLOR NORMAN LAMONT is a walking disaster when it comes to attracting scandal. First, he receives no less than five warning letters from his credit card company for exceeding his limit twenty-two times - hardly a good omen for a man in charge of the Nation's finances. Then, there is the question of how he paid the legal fees for the eviction of 'sex therapist' Sara Dale (a.k.a. 'Miss Whiplash') from one of his London homes. Lamont failed to adequately explain why the Treasury (i.e. the British Taxpayer) paid £4,700 towards his legal fees, or the identity of the 'anonymous donor' who paid the remaining £18,414 of the bill (official House of Commons rules state that no minister must accept gifts or cash worth more than £125).

But the biggest scandal of all is his mismanagement of the British economy, which is ruining the country's industry and putting millions of people on the dole. Last month the official figure for unemployment topped 2.9 million - and the REAL figure is probably more than 4 million.



NORMAN LAMONT riding the gravy train while Britain slides into ruin

Lamont and his fat-cat political and business cronies of course have no idea what it is like to become unemployed, or have their house repossessed. The Hunger Chancellor himself earns £63,000 a year from his ministerial job, which also includes perks such as two free homes and a limousine. When he leaves No 11, he will be guaranteed lucrative company directorships.

All this for a man who has created the worst trade deficit in British history, and the highest unemployment since the 1930s. It is about time he joined the dole queue himself.

'War on Whites' hits South Africa

Whites raped and slaughtered as tribal gangs go on rampage

BRITAIN'S white kin-folk in South Africa are suffering terrible atrocities as a result of F W de Klerk's policy of handing over the country to black communist rule.

Since the release of ANC terrorist Nelson Mandela, a wave of violence has swept the country, giving a chilling foretaste of what is in store for the white population should South Africa fall to black rule.

Last month, a black terrorist group calling itself the 'Pan African Congress' organised a rifle and grenade attack on a white golf club in the Eastern Cape, in which two white couples were killed and 20 injured.

PAC leader Benny Alexander claims attacks on whites could 'speed the peace' by terrorising South Africa into submission.

It is not only direct 'political' terrorism which is affecting whites, but the outbreak of criminal violence and lawlessness which has been caused by the ending of Apartheid.

TERRORIST Benny Alexander

South Africa once had one of the lowest crime rates in the world. The Apartheid system strictly regulated the movement of black workers within white residential areas. Now that segregation and the 'pass' laws have been abolished, many white South Africans have taken to arming themselves and barricading their homes at night.

VICTIMS: Julie Godwin and Elizabeth Over, both raped and murdered

Two British women are among the latest white victims of the breakdown in law and order. Holidaymakers Julie Godwin and Elizabeth Over were attacked by a gang of ANC gun-runners while sunbathing on an isolated beach. The two women were raped, mutilated and then hacked to death, before being dumped in the sea.

Needless to say, the bleeding-heart liberals back in Britain, so keen to condemn any 'injustice' suffered by blacks in South Africa, have maintained a deafening silence on the subject of attacks on whites. While our own kith and kin are being slaughtered in South Africa, the British Government appears more concerned for the fate of Bosnia or Somalia - countries which have nothing whatsoever to do with us.

The race war in South Africa is steadily escalating, and if nothing is done before long, there will be a massacre of whites on a scale not seen since the fall of Rhodesia.

Already the attacks against whites are growing more vicious. Another British woman was raped by a black youth only days after the attack on Elizabeth Over and Julie Godwin. A white schoolgirl aged only 16 was killed when her family's farmstead was attacked near Flicksberg, and five other whites were injured when a black gunman opened fire on motorists in a random attack.

A South African police spokesman, Steve van Rooyen commented: "It looks as though they were targeted because they were white."

Euro rip off

HOW EUROPE SQUANDERS OUR MONEY

NOT CONTENT with his humiliating U-turn on currency devaluation, John Major made a grovelling climb-down on Britain's EC budget contribution at the Edinburgh summit last month.

The summit was dressed up as a 'triumph' because Danish politicians were bribed into promising another referendum on the Maastricht treaty - which the Danish people quite sensibly rejected the first time around.

The reality is that in order to sweeten the pill of Maastricht, Major had to persuade the rest of the Community to allow Denmark a number of opt-out clauses to the treaty. To achieve this, he was forced to bribe the other countries - particularly Spain - with a massive 1.27 per cent increase in Britain's budget contribution. This will cost Britain hundreds of millions of pounds, at a time when we are already the biggest net contributor after Germany.

Conservative MP John Carlisle admitted the deal was "a political disaster for Britain. This deal is wrong." Fellow Tory MP Teresa Gorman added: "Spain held us to ransom. The Spanish have never been so well placed to destroy our sovereignty."

Despite caving in to robbery with menaces, Major emerged from the summit still wearing his silly grin and proclaimed it to be a great 'triumph' for his diplomatic skills.

In truth, he was mugged by the gang of crooks who run the Common Market swindle.

BRITISH TAXPAYERS were mugged for six and a half million pounds for hosting last month's Edinburgh EC summit.

While millions of British people were languishing on the dole or facing repossession of their homes through the interest rate swindle, the Brussels fat cats sat down to guzzle prime Aberdeen Angus beef, Scottish salmon and malt whiskies.

The refurbishment of Holyroodhouse royal palace added a further £3 million to the bill.

£17m WHITE ELEPHANT

Meanwhile, our European 'partners' across the channel have been spending Britain's money as if it is going out of fashion. The Belgian government has spent £171 million of EC funds on building a debating chamber for Euro MPs in Brussels - despite the fact that the European Parliament is based in Strasbourg! Not to be outdone, the French government has built 1,800 new offices for Euro MPs in Strasbourg at a cost of £232 million. Britain and the other EC states will therefore be charged £16.7 million annual rent for the Brussels building, which will probably never be used.

Commissioner Sir Leon Brittan

Most people are aware of the Common Agricultural Policy swindle, by which Britain pays millions of pounds to subsidise the obscene over-production of food mountains and wine lakes by over-paid European farmers. What is less well-known, is that we are also being ripped off by an even worse racket, known as the 'Structural Fund'.

MAFIA SWINDLE

Of the five and a half BILLION pounds Britain contributed to the EC budget last year, no less than £1.7 billion was accounted for by payments to the Structural Fund, a free handout to help supposedly 'poorer' states such as Spain, Italy and Ireland create jobs for their own people. What the money is actually used for is a different matter. One grateful recipient of Britain's generosity is the Italian Mafia, who are creaming off an estimated £100 million a year via corrupt local politicians. An unknown amount of British taxpayers' money also filters down to the IRA through fake businesses and charities set up to receive EC grants channelled through the Irish Government.

A recent bright idea by the Eurocrats was to subsidise the Spanish shoe industry, whereupon Britain was flooded with imports of cheap shoes — subsidised by our own Government!

THE EURO GRAVY TRAIN

Back in the 1980s, Margaret Thatcher sent Sir Leon Brittain to Brussels as UK Commissioner to the European Community. His brief was to fight for British interests in Europe, but he soon became an enthusiastic 'European'. Having risen to the rank of Vice President of the EC, Sir Leon is now the right-hand man of Jacques Delors, and clearly has a big personal stake in the Euro gravy train, as his job is worth an estimated £50,000 a year. He (naturally) claims that criticism of the structural fund is "absurd and ridiculous." But this is not the view of economics professor Patrick Minford of Liverpool University, who states:-

> "They are transferring billions to people who are basically well off. It's daylight robbery. The whole thing stinks. Effectively it's a bribe to Spain, Portugal, Italy and Ireland, so the Commission has the votes of grateful nations locked up."

We could not have put it better. Instead of just rejecting Maastricht, it's time we tore up the Treaty of Rome itself.

Somali 'refugee' racket exposed

- But how many more go undetected?

A SOMALI 'student' who scrounged off state handouts since she came to Britain six years ago has been jailed for only two years, after police uncovered a massive illegal immigrants racket.

Maria Mohammed charged illegal immigrants £280 to smuggle them into Britain via Italy. Mohammed was described by judge Daniel Rodwell as "clever and manipulative" in the way that she helped Somalis with 'refugee' status in Rome come to London, in order to take advantage of Britain's higher social security benefits.

The case has highlighted the madness of the proposal by the European Community to remove internal border controls within Europe. Millions of North African immigrants pouring into mediterranean countries such as Spain, Italy, and France as bogus 'refugees' whereupon having gained a European passport they are entitled to live anywhere in Europe. Huge numbers are ending up in Britain and Germany, tempted by weak immigration controls and higher state benefits.

MAYHEM IN THE GHETTOS

IN A BID to restore order in Manchester's Moss Side district, British police have for the first time been forced to seek advice from their counterparts in Miami, Florida.

Moss Side is described by one newspaper as 'Britain's most lawless and violent area'. Over the past twenty years the local council have used it as a ghetto for dumping immigrant families, and during the 1980s the area erupted into vicious race riots. Since the riots, drug-dealing has become the major growth industry in the area, and the sound of gunfire from Uzi machine pistols and other firearms has become an almost nightly occurrence. Membership of a particular drug gang is often based on the particular island or area of the Caribbean from which an individual originates, and each gang has its own 'territory'.

OLD FOLK LIVING IN TERROR

According to a recent Sunday Times report:

'A typical Moss Side drugs baron is a young black man known simply as Evil, who openly carries a handgun in the streets and enjoys terrorising elderly women. Evil is only sixteen, but he has a harem of three young women he calls The Bitches, and he employs a small army of schoolboy couriers who deliver drugs in expensive mountain bikes...'

Apart from dealing in crack and heroin, the gangs also enjoy extortion and armed robbery - often while under the influence of drugs themselves. In a recent incident, a gang burst into a community centre where an old folks' social evening was being held. They forced the pensioners to hand over their money. Then, without saying a word one of the drug-crazed gang smashed his baseball bat against the legs of a 75-year-old lady.

POLICE POWERLESS

The police now admit that they cannot contain the crime within the estate, and the violence is spilling out into surrounding suburbs. Last month, a businessman was hijacked at gunpoint in his car by four men wearing balaclavas. He was driven to a derelict building in Moss Side, where the gang tried to force him to pay £30,000. The man later escaped by jumping through a plate glass window. In another incident, women and children dived for cover as a crack dealer chased a rival into a shopping centre and sprayed the area with bullets.

Despite the appalling outbreak of lawlessness and drug dealing in areas such as Moss Side, Brixton and Handsworth, lily-livered Home Secretary Kenneth Clarke has totally failed to address the problem. Sentencing of violent criminals is pathetically inadequate and is clearly failing to deter them. Worse, the police are often effectively unable to deal with crime in 'racially sensitive' areas for fear of sparking off further riots and disorder.

As more and more of our cities become 'no-go' areas for the police, the only winners are the organised criminals, who stand to make millions of pounds out of this Government's weakness.

Police fear to arrest young blacks in racial no-go areas because of the constant threat of race riots

Even the Swiss reject signing the Treaty of Rome

THE PEOPLE of Switzerland have overwhelmingly rejected membership of the Common Market in a recent referendum. The result of the poll is seen as another big nail in the coffin of the EC.

The turnout for the Swiss referendum was unusually high at 79 per cent, with 16 cantons out of 23 voting against the proposed treaty to link the seven countries of the European Free Trade Area (which includes Switzerland) with the European Community.

Two out of the four countries recently given the choice have now voted 'no' to Europe, with France approving Maastricht only by a one per cent majority.

After the collapse of the Exchange Rate Mechanism, the Danish rejection of Maastricht and the Swiss rejection of the Treaty of Rome, it can only be a matter of time before the whole corrupt edifice of the Common Market collapses.

Court victory for 'E. London Four'

A smack in the eye for the British National Party's opponents was delivered last month when four party activists, known as the 'East London Four', were cleared in court of charges arising from an alleged attack on members of the self-styled 'Anti-Nazi League' (ANAL). The ANAL members had tried to stitch up the BNP men as a result of a reported fracas at Brick Lane back in November. The Four had been remanded in custody pending the court hearing.

STOP THIS EVIL POISON

THE NATIONAL Union of Teachers has issued rigid guidelines to prevent school teaching becoming "nationalistic and Eurocentric." The advice sent to schools says that teachers should use "every opportunity to widen pupils' awareness of the contribution of blacks and other non-Europeans to the world's store of knowledge, culture and achievement." In other words, our children are to be force-fed more multi-racial claptrap and 'anti-racist' propaganda - as if they were not getting enough already.

ATTACK ON BRITISH CULTURE

This latest nonsense from the extreme left-wing NUT is being seen by parents as a direct attack on white culture in general, and the British way of life in particular. Teachers are being ordered, for example, to teach white children about "African influences on European Art" - despite the fact that historically there never were any such influences! The art of Ancient Greece and Rome owed nothing to Africa; nor did that of the Gothic period, the Renaissance or any other period of European culture right up to modern times.

In music lessons, white children are to be told that the 'music' of an African tribe or a West Indian reggae band is of "equal value" to that of a Beethoven symphony.

FALSE VIEW OF HISTORY

It gets worse when we come to the NUT's guidance on the teaching of history. As a pillar of the left-wing Establishment, the Union cannot bring itself to allow a truthful examination of the period of the British Empire. Instead, the NUT guidelines say: "It should be pointed out that many parts of the world are still suffering the consequences of the colonial period, slavery and the movements of people to work to produce wealth." With the usual arrogance of the liberal, the NUT refuses to see the other side of the argument; that British and European colonisation of backward regions brought the benefits of modern technology, medicine and economic production to native peoples who in some cases had been living in literally stone-age conditions. The proposed Stalinist view of history will no doubt ignore the fact that in most cases, the departure of the white man has been bitterly regretted by third world citizens now suffering under brutal dictatorships or with the constant threat of starvation and economic disaster.

One thing that the liberal intellectual cannot tolerate, of course, is to allow the 'wrong' sort of books being read by school children. Teachers of English are therefore being given strict orders to check all reading books for "racist and sexist language and assumptions." In other words, books should only be approved if the are written by blacks, contain black characters or anti-sexist propaganda (or preferably all three!).

Wilma's mum spoke to Wilma. 'Why don't you let Anneena ride your bike a little way?' she said. 'You can ride on her bike.'
Wilma didn't really want to ride the old bike.

FORGET Janet & John, Peter & Jane - this is the sort of reading book our children are now being indoctrinated with

POLITICAL CENSORSHIP

Many children's favourites have already been banned or heavily censored by the Politically Correct lobby. Enid Blyton has had to go, because she wrote about white children and was too 'sexist'. Bulldog Drummond was of course far too 'racist', though Biggles has held on in heavily censored form. Even Shakespeare will have to clean up his act if he is to remain on the GCSE syllabus - his play The Merchant of Venice is far too anti-semitic for the limp-wristed liberals of the academic Establishment. The NUT in any case regards Rasta 'poet' Walter Nbene as far more intellectually 'relevant' than Shakespeare, and recommends visits to schools by black and Asian writers (no doubt heavily subsidised by the British taxpayer).

Even mathematics is described as a "powerful medium" for anti-racist teaching, and science teachers are recommended to cite examples of the work of "non-white scientists."

PEDDLING MARXISM

Unfortunately for our children, left-wing teachers are spending so much time peddling marxism and multi-racialism in the classroom, that they are failing miserably to teach the most basic subjects properly. The Government's own figures, issued last month, showed that almost a quarter of the country's seven-year-olds are unable to read. A further 22 per cent are sub-standard in arithmetic.

It is high time that left-wing teachers were rooted out of our schools so that our children can get a proper education instead of multi-racial brainwashing.

BNP TO FIGHT LOCAL ELECTIONS

LOCAL UNITS of the BNP will be contesting several county council elections in May this year.

The elections are important because traditionally the BNP has been able to maximise its vote in local polls, as resources can be concentrated into a much smaller area than during a General Election. For this reason, it is more likely that an electoral breakthrough will occur in a local rather than a national election.

Recently, the Party has been able to achieve some spectacular results in certain areas, culminating in Barry Osborne's magnificent 20 per cent of the poll in the Millwall ward of Tower Hamlets.

Although results outside London are likely to be more modest than this, there have been some notable successes elsewhere.

Potential candidates should approach their local or regional leaders as soon as possible before the election date, as there is a certain amount of paperwork which must be completed in advance.

Apart from winning votes, local elections are extremely useful for generating publicity in the local press, and a good opportunity for recruiting new members. Council elections also have the advantage of being cheaper than General Elections, as there is no deposit to pay.

Fake votes for Red Glenda

A POLICE investigation into alleged ballot-rigging during the general election has uncovered evidence of forged proxy votes in Glenda Jackson's Hampstead and Highgate constituency.

Detectives believe some form of fraud took place, but cannot decide who was responsible. A number of Tory supporters have complained that they were unable to vote as someone had already cast a ballot paper in their name. As Labour won with only a narrow majority, the missing votes could have made all the difference.

The Crown Prosecution Service, however, has judged that there are 'insufficient grounds' for further action, and as the alleged offences are covered by the Forgery Act rather than the Representation of the People Act, it is not possible to order a by-election.

'Red Glenda' fought the election on a platform of extreme left-wing and 'politically correct' policies - including of course 'anti-racism'. She claims to know nothing about the forged proxy votes - in which case, surely the honourable thing would be to call a by-election to clear the air? But of course that would involve the risk of losing her seat, and no true believer in 'democracy' would allow their sacred principles to jeopardise such a nice little earner...

The interesting thing is that this is by no means an isolated example of election fraud. ALL the so-called 'democratic' parties privately regard this sort of ballot rigging as a legitimate part of their 'gentleman's game' of democratic politics.

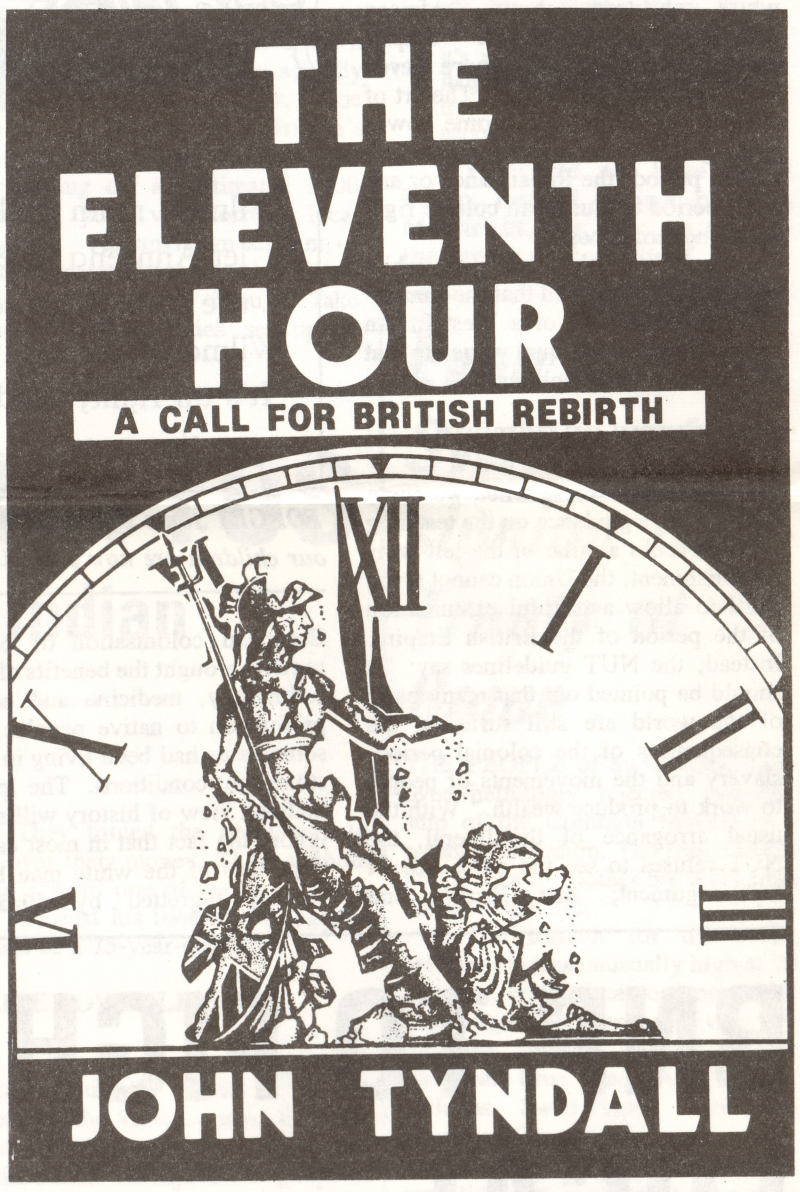
THE FRENCH REVOLUTION (by Nesta Webster). A much needed reprint of the counter-revolutionary classic that exposed the plotting behind the first great revolutionary bloodbath of modern history. £6.00 plus £2.05 p&p.

NEW REDUCED BOOK OFFER

THE ELEVENTH HOUR (by John Tyndall). We are now offering the hardback edition of this book at a price reduced from £15.00 to £12.00. This is because the paperback edition of the book is nearly sold out but there are a number of copies of the hardback in stock which we wish to clear before printing a new edition, which incidentally will be selling at a price higher than the original £15.00.

The Eleventh Hour has become the modern 'classic' for students of British Nationalism. It was written mostly while the British National Party leader was in prison, having been convicted under Britain's infamous race laws for saying things critical of the ethnic minorities. The book provides a comprehensive exposition of the entire political doctrine of the British National Party. New price £12.00 plus £3.15 p&p.



RALLY '92: Video-recording of the British National Party's Annual Rally in Central London on October 24th 1992. This video is now available and should make an ideal Christmas present for members of your family or friends. With better filming equipment used, the quality of picture is much superior to that in previous BNP rally videos. Price: £12.00 plus 93p p&p.

Patients from Pakistan, Thailand, Africa and even South America are flown to Britain by middlemen who arrange travel, visas, accommodation and appointments with doctors in Britain, often with interpreters paid for by the British authorities.

A Sunday newspaper recently reported how a Pakistani obtained treatment worth £7,500. In an even worse case, a Nigerian woman obtained three hip operations worth £25,000, after claiming to be a British resident and giving five different accommodation addresses. Subsequent investigation revealed that the woman, Doris Bello, drove a BMW and employed a servant at her Lagos home.

The cases uncovered by the NHS are of course just the tip of the iceberg. No one knows for certain just how many third worlders are arriving in Britain for a 'holiday' and then booking in to British hospitals. Britain has now acquired a number of 'exotic' diseases such as AIDS and sickle cell anaemia, which were unheard of before the days of the jumbo jet.

Health Service managers are demanding much more stringent checking of foreigners pitching up at British Hospitals. But as usual, the Government is terrified of upsetting the 'ethnic' community. Health Minister Virginia Bottomley whined: "It is important to avoid suspecting any ethnic name or face." Quite.

Anger over city race-hate leaflet

The plea has come from city councillor Bud Robinson after he found a race-hate leaflet had been delivered to his Brant Road home by the British National Party.

It is believed the group may have sent out many more leaflets in the south of the city as part of a drive to gain support in Lincoln.

Coun Robinson said: "I don't support this kind of discrimination. Minority groups have lived with others in Lincoln quite happily."

by Soraya Madell

"This could get people thinking there's a problem when there isn't. I would feel very offended if I came from an ethnic group living in this area and received this through my door."

He urged people to throw the leaflet in the bin or burn it.

"There's a danger that this kind of thing can whip up feelings," he said.

"The British National Party must have done quite a big drop in the south of the city, but people should put the leaflets where they belong — in the bin."

Paul Taylor, a Labour Party prospective county councillor, said he was so outraged at getting the leaflet at his Larne Road home that he called the police.

"The policeman was just as disgusted," he said. "It was obscene and blatantly racist. I found it totally repugnant.

"There's a rise of the right in Europe but why they chose to do this in Lincoln I don't know."

"Obviously people need to be worried. It was a disturbing leaflet and it may be possible to prosecute for incitement of racial hatred."

Inspector Chris Hayden, of Lincoln police, said: "When we get something like this we look at the leaflet to see if it contains anything which would incite racial hatred.

"We'd then send a report to the Crown Prosecution Service, which would have to get the Attorney-General's permission according to the Public Order Act 1986 before it can prosecute."

The article above appeared in the Lincolnshire Echo, following a highly successful mass leaflet drop in the south of the city. The article is f course biased against the BNP, but in fact the local folk were very pleased to see us in the area!

BNP UNITS MAKE LOCAL HEADLINES

Leaflet drop leaves red councillors hopping mad

DESPITE the last minute rush to complete Christmas shopping last month, BNP units around the country found time for a number of highly successful activities.

LOCAL PUBLICITY

The Lincoln group in particular struck gold with their mass leafleting drop in the south of the city, gaining some excellent publicity in the local press. Apart from attracting new members and supporters, it is always nice to 'wind up' local lefties, and this was certainly achieved by the Lincoln activity, in which no less than two local Labour councillors received a 'Join Us' leaflet.

The two stooges in question, Messrs Bud Robinson and Paul Taylor, played straight into the hands of the BNP by running to the local press to complain - thus giving us some welcome publicity.

ESTABLISHMENT VIEWS

In typical 'democratic' fashion, the Labourites were so dismayed that anyone could dare to disagree with their Establishment views that they called the police to see if the leaflets could be banned!

The local plod sorrowfully reported that he could do nothing, as the leaflets were in fact perfectly legal.

One thing is certain: If our views are upsetting the Labour Party as well as the Tories, we must be doing something right!

ANOTHER local BNP group deserving of a mention this month is the Stoke-on-Trent unit.

As can be seen from the local press cuttings shown below, this unit was one of the BNPs greatest success stories of 1992, and is clearly going to make 1993 an even more productive year.

The Stoke unit began with just one individual going out regularly to leaflet the area on his own, persevering even when at first the leaflets achieved little response. Now, only a few months later, there is a thriving and successful group of people in Stoke working as a dedicated team, selling papers and putting out leaflets by the thousand. They clearly have the local Establishment worried, but ordinary folk have given the BNP a warm welcome, with a steady flow of membership enquiries.

DPP probes race leaflet

These articles appeared in a number of newspapers in the Stoke/Stafford area following activities by the Stoke on Trent unit.

The Stoke on Trent Unit is now one of the most active in the Region, and has supported a considerable number of regional and national as well as local activities.

The Stoke Unit has demonstrated how mass leafletting can hit the headlines - especially in areas which immigrants regard as `their' territory!

The Director of Public Prosecutions has been asked to rule on a possible prosecution, following complaints about the leaflet from Stoke Central MP, Mark Fisher.

The anti-immigration leaflet was distributed in the Summer by the Hanley-based Stoke-on-Trent British National Party.

In a letter to Mr Fisher, Home Office Minister, Peter Lloyd said: "First, I should make it clear that the Government deplores those sentiments expressed in publications which are directed against any section of the community in Britain.

By Vincent Gibbons

"I understand, and share, the revulsion felt about this sort of literature in particular."

Mr Lloyd said prosecution of incitement to racial hatred could be made only by, or with the consent of the Attorney General.

The responsibility for the investigation of complaints about such material rested with the police.

Mr Lloyd added: "If it appears to the police that there may be sufficient evidence to prosecute, they will seek the consent of the Attorney General to a prosecution.

"In view of the responsibilities of the Crown Prosecution Service in advising upon prosecutions, I am sending a copy of our correspondence to the DPP."

Anger as racist leaflets signal neo-Nazi surge

Racist leaflets distributed in the north east of Stafford have sparked a storm of protest among the ethnic communities living in the area.

By Sally-ann Bloomer

Asian people living in the area fear the leaflets may mean a right-wing neo-Nazi organisation is active locally.

Many homes in the Oxford Gardens, Cambridge Street, Tithe Barn Road and John Street area of town received the leaflets last week, as well as the Sikh temple and lamp posts across the area were adorned with British National Party stickers.

Mr Kirat Singh Takhar, of Stafford, said he was totally disgusted by the leaflets.

"We don't know whether this is the work of an individual or a political organisation," he said.

"We are very worried thought whether there is sinister motive behind it all.

"We just think the best thing to do though is to throw them away, ignore them and get on with living our lives in the community as best we can."

Leaflets spark fear of racial hatred

NEO-NAZI leaflets delivered to homes in the north of Stafford have sparked fears that extreme-right wing agitators are trying to stir up racial hatred.

The leaflets, produced by the British National Party, were distributed in Oxford Gardens, Cambridge Street and John Street, an area inhabited by a number of ethnic minorities.

Lamp-posts from Marston Road to Gaol Square were plastered with BNP stickers.

"I think it is disgusting they are picking on this area," said Common ward councillor Iris Moseley, who urged people to ignore the leaflets.

A Stafford spokesman for Anti-Fascist Action, which monitors racism, said: "I think these agitators are from outside the area as there isn't a BNP group in Stafford."

The British National Party were unavailable for comment.

Mossad mobilised as Euro nationalists go from strength to strength

ITALIAN NATIONALISTS last month achieved their greatest electoral success since the second world war, as the MSI (Italian Social Movement) more than doubled its electoral share to 16 per cent in local government elections.

Alessandra Mussolini, now an Italian MP

SUPPORT FOR NATIONALISM

Meanwhile, in typical 'democratic' fashion, Germany's Establishment parties have been taking action to stem the flood of support for the nationalist movement there. The 'action' of course does not involve democratic debate or reasoned discussion, rather the use of secret police methods. A number of nationalist leaders have been rounded up and jailed, and the interior ministry has announced that groups such as Franz Schönhuber's Republicans will now be subject to phone taps, infiltration by under-cover policemen and document searches.

GOVERNMENT HELPLESS

Herr Schönhuber has said that the operation proves the Government's "total helplessness" in the face of growing support for nationalism. He added: "Germany's political class, trembling at the thought of losing its political foothold, has dropped its democratic mask and resorted to the methods of the police state."

Franz Schönhuber

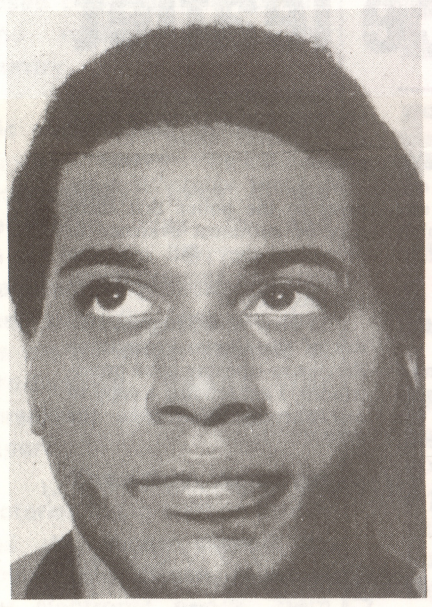
There are real fears among Germany's political establishment that the Republicans, who now have 23,000 members, could enter parliament for the first time in 1994, jeopardising the conservative and socialist coalitions which have ruled Germany since 1949.

As the power of nationalism grows, Germany's conservative government is quietly encouraging communist and anarchist gangs to launch violent attacks against nationalists. According to a police report, there were 206 attacks by communists against nationalists during 1992, including one murder.

THE FOUNDER of Mossad, Israel's answer to the KGB, has said that Israel should wage a terrorist war against European nationalist groups.

The outburst follows the latest electoral success of the Italian MSI, but Israel is also said to be "extremely worried" at the success of nationalist parties in France, Germany, Austria, and even Belgium, where spectacular election results have been achieved.

Isser Harel said that Israel must take "covert steps" to "harm the leaders of neo-Nazi (sic) movements in countries whose governments do not wish or are incapable of facing up to neo-Nazi groups." Harel is believed to have masterminded some of the worst atrocities carried out against Palestinian civilians and the British authorities during the British Mandate over Palestine.



MURDERER Nicholas Vernage

"Bring back the rope"

THE WIDOW of a policeman killed by an evil psychopath has called for restoration of the death penalty - echoing the official policy of the BNP.

Judge Robert Lymbery described killer Nicholas Vernage as "evil through and through without any redeeming features."

Vernage had embarked on a life of crime from an early age, and in 1987 had been jailed for a series of vicious robberies on north London pubs. On being released, instead of being deported to the West Indies, he was allowed to remain in Britain, where he committed a series of robberies, culminating in the stabbing to death of two burglary victims and Sergeant King.

The widow and two teenage children of the murdered policeman were in court to hear the verdict.

As Vernage was led away to complete five live sentences, he turned to the bereaved family and sneered: "Happy Christmas."

This tragic case is yet another example of the results of the Government's weakness on law and order. Despite overwhelming public support for capital punishment, the BNP is the only political party which supports restoration of the death penalty.

VICTIM'S widow, Monica King

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the Common Market
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum possible self-sufficiency in food production.
- Rejection of both the poll tax and its substitute, the new 'property tax', and a return to the old rates system, though with fairer rebates allowing for differences in income and in the numbers occupying properties.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people – the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO, closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain, the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish Agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- Repeal of the laws permitting homosexuality and abortion (except where the latter is the result of rape or necessary on medical grounds), the wiping out of AIDS and a return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
